Guide to the WEAI modules and interviewer's manual

This zip file contains MS Word and pdf files of the survey instruments used to construct the Women's Empowerment in Agriculture Index (WEAI).

Final questionnaires: The Uganda instruments, in English, are the FINAL household and individual questionnaires. The household questionnaire is implemented first, in order to select the primary male and primary female respondents for the individual interviews. Required modules from the household questionnaire are indicated in green, and variables used for validation are in blue. The Uganda individual questionnaire contains the variables used to construct the index, variables used for validation (in blue), and additional variables or alternative wording (in yellow) that were suggested at a technical review workshop in January 2012.

Pilot questionnaires. The Bangla and Spanish questionnaires are the PILOT questionnaires that were used in the Bangladesh and Guatemala pilots from September to November 2011. They contain many more questions than are used for the construction of the indicators in the WEAI, and thus are significantly longer than the final versions. They are provided for assistance with translations and background information only.

Interviewer's manual: The interviewer's manual (in English) corresponds to the Uganda questionnaire.
