

International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI)
Datasets Terms of Use Statement
(December 2019)

1. Description

The International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI) views the products of its research including research dataset(s) as global public goods and is committed to enabling their widespread distribution and use by providing unrestricted public access. This is in keeping with the IFPRI Research Data Management and Open Access \(RDMOA\) Policy and the CGIAR Open Access and Data Management Policy \(each, a “Policy” and together, the “Policies”\).

IFPRI makes all its research data publicly available through the “IFPRI Dataverse.” The IFPRI Dataverse houses and is comprised of datasets collected during the course of IFPRI research, including data tables in various standard formats, survey instruments, codebooks, metadata, and other associated documentation. IFPRI Dataverse is a network member of Harvard Dataverse, which is a repository for research data hosted at Institute for Quantitative Social Science (IQSS)¹, Harvard University.

IFPRI is the owner of the “IFPRI Dataverse” (sometimes referred to in these Terms of Use as the “Site”). The Communications and Public Affairs (CPA) division of IFPRI operates this Site on behalf of IFPRI. For questions pertaining to these terms of use, licenses, or concerns, please contact IFPRI-Data@cgiar.org.

In the event of any conflict between these Terms of Use and either of the Policies, the terms of the applicable Policy shall control with respect to, and to the extent of, any such conflicting terms.

In addition to Third-Party Materials (as described in Section 6), there may be certain Content that may have more restrictive terms of use (e.g., particular datasets, including those related to the “Africa RISING” program, that may have timing and other restrictions, such as when IFPRI may first make the relevant data generally publicly available). In such case, users shall at all times comply with any and all such additional restrictions, and shall not attempt to circumvent any relevant technical, administrative or other security measures, or otherwise seek to obtain unauthorized access to such Content.

4. Copyright and Licenses

In addition, IFPRI is the owner of this Site, and the data, datasets, and other content provided on this Site (all such content collectively, the “Content”) are the exclusive property of IFPRI and/or its affiliates, or are used with permission from third-party licensors, and are protected by law, including United States copyright, database, trade secret, and trademark law, as well as other state, national, and international laws and regulations.

This license contains permission to reuse, distribute, and reproduce content even for commercial purposes. IFPRI grants this license under the condition that any reuse will contain attribution of the content to IFPRI and any named authors of the dataset in the form of citations as per applicable industry standards and best practices for citing data, or as otherwise acceptable to IFPRI in its reasonable discretion. Notwithstanding the foregoing, IFPRI reserves the right, in its reasonable discretion to choose not to be associated with certain reports and other products that cite the relevant data, and in any such event, IFPRI may notify the user, and the user shall promptly comply with IFPRI's requests related thereto.
