

✿ The IFPRI-hosted Cash Transfer and Intimate Partner Violence Research Collaborative will be at the SVRI Forum 2026 (October 5–8, 2026 in Bangkok, Thailand), presenting research on how large-scale economic interventions can prevent violence against women and girls (VAWG). We will be sharing evidence on the impacts on VAWG from cash-plus programming, asset interventions, insurance and financial products, livelihoods and jobs interventions, and more. Below are the sessions where you can find the Collaborative’s work.

Please also look for and RSVP to our meetup on the Whova app, for a chance to informally chat and socialize with others working in this space: “Preventing VAWG through large-scale economic interventions” on Tuesday from 12:45-1:45 PM (location to be updated on Whova).

Join the discussions, and come say hi!

Monday, October 5

Time	Session & Room	Facilitators
2:00–5:00 PM	Workshop 13: Leveraging anti-poverty programming to prevent violence at scale: Evidence as practice [Lotus 3–4]	Shalini Roy, Tia Palermo, Amber Peterman, Meghna Ranganathan, Lori Heise

Tuesday, October 6

Time	Session & Room	Presentation	Presenter
1:00–2:00 PM	Poster Session A [Poster Area]	“Gender and violence dynamics of a government housing lottery in Ethiopia” (Poster)	Seifu Tadesse

Wednesday, October 7

Time	Session & Room	Presentation	Presenter
1:00–2:00 PM	Poster Session B [Poster Area]	“Employment and intimate partner violence: A mixed-method systematic review in low- and middle-income countries” (Poster)	Tia Palermo
		“How social norms shape pathways through which an economic intervention affects intimate partner violence in Bangladesh” (Poster)	Nasrin Sultana
5:00–6:30 PM	Session 6.3: Does economic empowerment reduce intimate partner violence? Evidence from the field (chair: Niyati Shah) [Ballroom B]	“Leveraging cash transfer programs for intimate partner violence prevention” (Oral)	Amber Peterman
		“Retargeting an anti-poverty cash transfer program increases intimate partner violence” (Oral)	Clotilde Mahe
		“Digital financial inclusion and intimate partner violence: Experimental impacts of credit and insurance innovations in India” (Oral)	Shalini Roy